ACCT 441 - Advanced Tax

C Corporation Tax Return

Banner, Inc. (a C corporation) is located at 90 Fifth Avenue, New York City, NY. The corporation uses the calendar year and accrual basis for both book and tax purposes. It is engaged in the sale of selfprotection gear. Its employer identification number (EIN) is 12-12345687. The company was incorporated on January 1, 1941 and began business on April 1, 1941.

Banner, Inc. made the following estimated tax payments for 2017:

| April 15, 2017 | $$ 100,000$ |
| :--- | ---: |
| June 15, 2017 | 200,000 |
| September 15, 2017 | 235,000 |
| December 15, 2017 | $\underline{235,000}$ |
| Total | $\underline{$ 770,000}$ |

Taxable income in 2016 was $$ 1.4$ million and the 2016 tax was $$ 476,000$. The corporation earned its 2017 taxable income evenly throughout the year. Therefore, it does not use the annualization or seasonal methods.

Inventory and Cost of Goods Sold:
The corporation uses the periodic inventory method and prices its inventory using the lower of FIFO cost or market. Only beginning inventory, ending inventory, and purchases should be reflected on the appropriate form. No other costs or expenses are allocated to cost of goods sold. The corporation is exempt from the uniform capitalization (UNICAP) rules because average gross income for the previous three years was less than $$ 10$ million. The following information should also be included on the applicable form:

Line 9 (a) Check (ii)
(b),(c), & (d) Not applicable
(e) & (f) No

Compensation of Officers:

| Officer | Social Security # | \% Time Devoted  to Business | \% of Stock Owned | Amount of  Compensation |

Capital Gains and Losses:
The corporation sold 100 shares of Shield Corp. common stock on October 7, 2017 for $$ 125,000$. The corporation acquired the stock on December 15, 2016 for $$ 95,000$. The corporation also sold 75 shares of Metro Corp common stock on June 17, 2017 for $$ 110,000$. The corporation acquired this stock on September 18, 2015 for $$ 117,000$. The corporation has a $$ 10,000$ capital loss carryover from 2016. These transactions were not reported to the corporation on Form 1099-B.

Fixed Assets and Depreciation:
Book: The corporation uses straight-line deprecation over the useful lives of the assets as follows: store building, 50 years; equipment, ten years; and trucks, five years. The corporation takes a halfyear's depreciation in the year of acquisition and the year of disposition and assumes no salvage value. The book financial statements reflect these calculations.

Tax: All assets are MACRS property as follows: store building, 39-year non-residential real property; equipment, seven-year property; and trucks, five-year property. The corporation acquired the store building for $$ 1$ million and placed it in services on January 2, 2014. The corporation acquired two pieces of equipment for $$ 200,000$ (Equipment 1) and $$ 400,000$ (Equipment 2) and placed them in service on January 2, 2014. The corporation acquired the trucks for $100,000 and placed them in service on July 18, 2015. The trucks are not listed property and are no subject to the limitation on luxury automobiles. The corporation did not make the expensing election under Sec. 179 or take bonus depreciation on any property acquired before 2017. Accumulated depreciation through December 31, 2016 on the properties is as follows:

| Store building | $$ 75,890$ |
| :--- | ---: |
| Equipment 1 | 112,540 |
| Equipment 2d | 225,080 |
| Trucks | 52,000 |

On October 16, 2017 the corporation sold Equipment 1 for $$ 230,000$. The corporation had no Sec. 1231 losses from prior years. In a separate transaction on October 17, 2017 the corporation acquired and placed in service a piece of equipment costing $$ 500,000$. Assume these transactions do not qualify as like-kind exchange. The new equipment is seven-year property. The corporation made the Sec. 179 expensing election for the entire cost of the property. Use published IRS depreciation tables to compute the 2017 depreciation.
