Module Five Short Answer Guidelines and Rubric

PSY 324 Module Five Short Answer Guidelines and Rubric

Overview

In this module, you read about theories on emotion and motivation and the limitations in what is known about both. This includes support some disorders. You have also explored universal expressions of emotions and how they vary across cultures. In this assignment, you will use the module to answer critical thinking questions about these topics and demonstrate your understanding of emotional expression in an area. This assignment prepares you to write about the culture you chose in the final project analysis paper.

Prompt

Answer the following questions, integrating information from the text and module resources. One to two paragraphs per question.

1. Why do Chinese students (according to empirical studies) evaluate acceptance to college as a more stressful event than American students?
2. Several studies found that both men and women identified angry expressions (compared to other emotional expressions) more frequently than other expressions. Why?
3. What are the key weaknesses of psychoanalysis from the standpoint of cross-cultural psychology?
4. What methodological problems are associated with survey-based studies of emotional expressions?
5. According to researcher Li Yinhe, most gay men in China eventually choose to marry a woman. Why?

You must address the following critical elements in this assignment:

- I. Respond to all five questions, addressing the main ideas in each question completely. Cite at least one module resource to illustrate your points.
- II. Draw informed conclusions that are justified with evidence.
- III. Provide in-depth analysis that demonstrates an understanding of course concepts.
- IV. Incorporate scholarly resources effectively into each response to reflect knowledge of the depth and breadth of research.

What to Submit

Submit your short answer assignment as a 1- to 2-page Microsoft Word document with double spacing, 12-point Times New Roman font, and margins according to APA style.
