Annotated Bibliography Guidelines and Rubric

PSY 442 Annotated Bibliography Guidelines and Rubric

Overview

Annotated bibliographies provide you with the opportunity to cite, summarize, and compare and contrast resources you will use in a paper. An annotated bibliography is an approximately 150-word description that summarizes the central theme and scope of the resource, and compare and contrast it with other resources. For more information on annotated bibliographies, consult the SNHU Writing Center's annotated bibliography guide.

Note: The work you do in each of the modules should directly relate to the course project. You should use the resources that you collect in your annotated bibliography. Selected resources must be scholarly articles that reflect the topics outlined in the assignment. Course resources and Wikipedia may not be used in your annotated bibliography but must be from primary sources.

Resources: Use the Psychology Research Guide to locate scholarly articles. Use this link for information on how to format an annotated bibliography.

Instructions: Each article should be added as a separate submission. For each article, include the following:

- A brief summary of the resource (approximately 150 words)
- An evaluation of the resource, including the author's background, document source, and intended audience
- An analysis of the article, including its relevance to the topic
- Proper citation in APA format
- Correct spelling, grammar, and professional vocabulary

Approach these activities as (a) an opportunity to reflect upon and apply what you learn each week based on the assigned readings, discuss your knowledge and expertise based on your educational and professional experiences in the past. As a successful professional, you will need to
