

STUDYDADDY

Get Homework Help
From Expert Tutor

Get Help

In what ways do American women experience inequality in education in today's society?

Research Paper Outline

I. Introduction - What is your research question?

A. Using sources in the introduction is optional. Do you plan to use sources to help you give background information? If yes, list the authors' names and the page numbers where the information is located here. If you don't plan to use sources in the introduction, leave this blank.

B. Thesis: What is your argument or main point in this paper?

II. Topic Sentence: What idea or point will you focus on for paragraph 2?

- Details
- List the names of the authors (more than one) that you read who discuss that idea/point and the page numbers where that information is located (When you write out the paper, you should have details in between your quotes, not back to back quotes).

• Details

• Closing Sentence III. Topic Sentence: What idea or point will you focus on for paragraph 3?

• Details

- List the names of the authors (more than one) that you read who discuss that idea/point and the page numbers where that information is located (When you write out the paper, you should have details in between your quotes, not back to back quotes).

• Details

• Closing Sentence

IV. Topic Sentence: What idea or point will you focus on for paragraph 4?

• Details

- List the names of the authors (more than one) that you read who discuss that idea/point and the page numbers where that information is located (When you write out the paper, you should have details in between your quotes, not back to back quotes).

• Details

• Closing Sentence V. Topic Sentence: What idea or point will you focus on for paragraph 5?

• Details

- List the names of the authors (more than one) that you read who discuss that idea/point and the page numbers where that information is located.

When you write out the paper, you should have details in between your quotes, not back to back quotes).

• Details

• Closing Sentence

VI. Topic Sentence: What idea or point will you focus on for paragraph 6?

• Details

- List the names of the authors (more than one) that you read who discuss that idea/point and the page numbers where that information is located.

(When you write out the paper, you should have details in between your quotes, not back to back quotes).

- Details
- Closing SentenceVII. Topic Sentence: What idea or point will you focus on for paragraph 7?
- Details
- List the names of the authors (more than one) that you read who discuss that idea/point and the page numbers where that information is located (When you write out the paper, you should have details in between your quotes, not back to back quotes).
- Details
- Closing Sentence

VIII. Topic Sentence: What idea or point will you focus on for paragraph 8?

- Details
- List the names of the authors (more than one) that you read who discuss that idea/point and the page numbers where that information is located. (When you write out the paper, you should have details in between your quotes, not back to back quotes).
- Details
- Closing SentenceIX. Topic Sentence: What idea or point will you focus on for paragraph 9?
- Details
- List the names of the authors (more than one) that you read who discuss that idea/point and the page numbers where that information is located When you write out the paper, you should have details in between your quotes, not back to back quotes).
- Details
- Closing Sentence

X. Topic Sentence: What idea or point will you focus on for paragraph 10?

- Details
- List the names of the authors (more than one) that you read who discuss that idea/point and the page numbers where that information is located. (When you write out the paper, you should have details in between your quotes, not back to back quotes).
- Details
- Closing Sentence

(If you don't have this many paragraphs, just don't fill in all of them. If you have more paragraphs, just keep adding on in the same format)

XI. Conclusion

STUDYDADDY

Get Homework Help
From Expert Tutor

Get Help