Module Two Project Proposal Guidelines and Rubric

HUM 102 Module Two Project Proposal Guidelines and Rubric

Overview

In this course, we are exploring how the humanities teach us not only about each other but about ourselves. Creative works allow us to look at the world around us. They can serve as an entry point for understanding complicated topics. For this assignment, you will choose a topic (diverse or specific) that you will use to compare various subject areas of the humanities in relation to your chosen topic.

This assignment builds toward Part One of the project, and you will expand on this in Module Four as you further analyze your chosen topic. You will also consult the Project Guidelines and Rubric and read the scenario provided. The scenario will provide the background for your work on Part One.

Directions

For this assignment, you will draft the first two components of Part One of your project. You will identify two creative works associated with two different humanities subject areas. These creative works can be selected from the list of works located in the HUM 102 Project Materials. Alternatively, you may choose to select two creative works not included in the provided list with instructor approval.

Humanities subject areas you may choose from include the following:

- Visual art (paintings, photographs, sculpture, architecture, drawing, film)
- Performing arts (theater, dance, music, opera)
- Literature (novels, poems, scripts for plays, short stories, song lyrics)

Specifically, you must address the following:

Specify which topic you have chosen and the two creative works that you have chosen. Use the two creative works to compare various aspects of your chosen topic. Address the following criteria in Part One:

1. Describe the two creative works. Feel free to elaborate, but make sure you include these three items:
 - A. Your chosen topic (mental health, diversity, or activism)
 - B. The names of the chosen creative works
 - C. Why you chose those creative works

2. Describe how the chosen creative works can be used to understand the topic.

A. How do the different humanities subject areas you have chosen (visual, literary, and/or performing arts) approach the topic?

What to Submit
